

Breathing fire without the smoke

In the past I could never go out with my friends to bars and restaurants, for fear of having an asthma attack from all the smoke. For the past year though, I've been able to indulge my passion for spicy food, thanks to the 100% smoke-free public places initiative. What a breath of fresh air! Hats off to the people of Ottawa—both smokers and non-smokers—for supporting the bylaw, and for continuing to support local businesses.
